Odd Times Even

<https://nrich.maths.org/8062>

Choose any two numbers, such as 4 and 5. One must be even and the other odd.

Try multiplying them together. How could you show this?

Lewis used a number line:

What do you notice about the answer?

Look closely at one of these models.

Can you see anything in it that would work in exactly the same way if you used the same model with a different pair of even and odd numbers?

Can you use your one example to prove what will happen every time you multiply an even number and an odd number together?

See if you can explain this to someone else.

Are they convinced by your argument?

Once you can convince someone else, see if you can find a way to show us your argument. You might draw something or take a photo of things you have used to prove that your result is always true from your example.

Spot Mr Whoops' Mistakes

Mr Whoops is a little bit clumsy...OK, he's very clumsy! Even though he's really trying hard with his writing, he's still accidentally misspelt 13 of his Y6 key spelling words. Can you spot his mistakes?

Highlight Mr Whoops' mistakes in the passage of text.

Then correct the words at the bottom of the sheet and create a list for Mr. Whoops to practise.

Mr Whoops Wins First Prize

Last week, I entered a photography competition in my local newspaper.

I was desperate to win because the marvelous prize was some new, state-of-the-art equipment. As a very keen amateur photographer, I was determined to win. The task was to take a photograph in my local environment to communicate the beauty and history of my hometown of Whoopsville. I decided to take a photograph of the war memorials that commemorate the brave soldiers that gave their lives in battle at my local cemetery.

My first attempt at getting a picture was disastrous because I got caught up in an aggressive thunder and lightning storm. But once the rain had ceased, I managed to get an excellent shot of a gravestone surrounded in poppies with a glorious sunny backdrop. They must have loved it - I won first prize!
